

First Post Ever

Written by Chris Ventura

Tuesday, 24 February 2009 03:32 -

Welcome to the site. It's going to be a while before we really get things going on here. The plan is to do a couple shows per week and see what happens. The last time I did anything like this was 10 years ago, so I'm apt to be a bit rusty out of the gate. Thanks to the support of many friends, I feel very capable of pulling this off. A few of you may know the plans I have had for several years. Due to the culmination of many outside events, I have finally found extreme motivation to put forth my ideas now. It's going to take a while to build, but we've all got to start somewhere. Thanks to all of you for the kind words and support. Look for the first "show" (it's going to be a rough one), late Tuesday/early Wednesday this week.