PREFACE:

Before we officially re-launched The Chris Ventura Show, we gave something new a try—not only did we broadcast live for the first time, but we added video to the program as well.

The idea to go live and also doing video podcasts has always been something we've thought about doing. So, we decided to have a little pre-launch trial run and make the holiday shows a testing ground for some ideas.

The live video shows have proven to be quite fun for us to do and we feel that they have been a success and an opportunity for us to try some new things. They will now become a regular part of The Chris Ventura Show. New audio-only podcasts will be released alongside this new live video show. We hope you have enjoyed our recent live video broadcasts and we are looking forward to producing them on a regular basis.
