

I am currently working hard and doing my best to be a productive student. One more quarter to go followed by a three month summer break which I am eagerly anticipating! I'm currently rounding up ideas and subjects for four more shows this April.

While you wait, and I know many of you are waiting (some of you rather angrily I might add) for new shows to be released, check out this article that was just published in my university's paper--written by yours truly. Proof once again, that I am alive, active, and well--not dead or missing as some of you constantly assume. Stop reading the obituaries looking for me. I'm over in the opinions section. Thanks.
